

Welcome to Kayak Point County Park!

In 1967, the land this 670 acre park sits upon was destined to become an oil refinery. But in 1972, Snohomish County, with assistance from the Inter-agency Committee for Outdoor Recreation, purchased the land from the Richfield Oil Corporation.

Today, Kayak Point is Snohomish County's most popular park where visitors enjoy the wooded forest and over 3,000 feet of Port Susan (Puget Sound) shoreline. Fish and crab from a 300' fishing pier, host parties and events under 12 picnic shelters, fly a kite in the open fields, hang-out in our large playground, then spend the night in one of 30 campsites, 10 yurts, or the vacation cottage.
